FEATURED PRESENTERS

Max McGee

President of Hazard, Young, Attea Associates

Using a Third Party for Superintendent Success

Glenn "Max" McGee is recognized as a dynamic leader on critical issues concerning leadership, student mental health, and equity. He has made it his life's work to advocate and act decisively to support underrepresented students to ensure their opportunity and access to impactful programs and services. Max's passion lies in identifying, developing, coaching, and supporting school and district leaders to successfully lead through turbulent times.

Don Haddad

Superintendent, St. Vrain Valley Schools
Longmont, Colorado

Keys to Community and Parent Engagement

As leader of St. Vrain Valley Schools - the seventh-largest district in Colorado and home to more than 33,000 students across 13 communities - Don Haddad has spent more than a decade cultivating a relationship with its community that has been the nexus for implementing systemic and strategic change. This has forged a path toward transformation from a school district on the brink of bankruptcy to one that is nationally and internationally recognized for innovation and parent leadership.

John Gatta

Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of ECRA Group

Adopting Research and Analytics as a Core Strategy for Quality Improvement

John Gatta, Ph.D. is Chief Executive Officer (CEO) of ECRA Group. In addition to his responsibilities at ECRA Group, John is an Assistant Professor of statistics and predictive analytics at Northwestern University, where he also serves as Director of Research. His unique blend of academic, technical, management and leadership experience gives him keen insights into how schools can best adopt research and analytics as a core strategy for quality improvement. As CEO of ECRA Group, he also serves as chief architect of ECRA's analytic infrastructure related to data structures, data warehousing, statistical algorithms and reporting.
